

Best Learning Resources

Your unfair advantage to getting clients and becoming a top earning freelancer by monetizing your talents and working on your terms

- LinkedIn Learning <https://www.linkedin.com/learning> With a 1-month free trial, LinkedIn Learning offers access to thousands of courses in business, design, art, education, and tech.
- Udemy <https://www.udemy.com/> Over 35000 courses are offered across a breadth of categories, including business and entrepreneurship, academics, the arts, health and fitness, language, music, and technology.. There are both free and paid courses.
- Skillshare <https://www.skillshare.com/home> Focusing on the concept of "Learn by doing", creative arts, design, entrepreneurship, lifestyle, and technology are just some of the areas of the self-paced classes. With over 200 free classes, Skillshare is a good starting point.
- Babbel <https://www.babbel.com/> Learn a new language with this fun, engaging online learning platform.
- Duolingo <https://www.duolingo.com/learn> With Duolingo, you can learn 36 different languages in entertaining, short lessons that only take 5 to 20 minutes a day.
- YouTube Creator Academy <https://creatoracademy.youtube.com/page/home> Youtube Creator Academy offers only online classes in 13 qualifications. By taking the courses, you can learn how to grow your YouTube channel from 0 to 100,000+ Subscribers - and how to turn it into a Six-Figure Income Generating Business, for example, but also many more
- Coursera <https://www.coursera.org/> With over 1,500 courses and partnerships with 140 educational institutions across the world, Coursera has courses in business, social sciences, math, life sciences, and humanities, to name a few. While there are some free courses, others cost (but you can still take them without receiving the final certification by auditing the course).
- SitePoint <https://www.sitepoint.com> Best for web developers looking to expand their skillset, the site offers access to video tutorials, online books, courses, and community discussions
- Skillcrush <https://skillcrush.com/> With immersive 3-month courses, each focused on the skills needed for a specific career, Skillcrush believes in making technology accessible to everyone.

- edX <https://www.edx.org/> Founded by Harvard University and MIT, edX offers nearly 200 wildly diverse courses. EdX courses consist of pre-recorded video lectures that you can watch on a weekly schedule or when it's convenient for you. They are free to audit, but if you want unlimited access and earn a course Certificate, you will need to pay.
- Alison <https://alison.com/> With a wide range of free courses on technology, languages, science, financial literacy, personal and soft skills, entrepreneurship, and more, Alison targets all types of learners.
- Codecademy <https://www.codecademy.com/> For those just starting of or thinking of changing careers, Codecademy is a great way to get a sense for what coding is and how it works. It covers all kinds of programming, including JavaScript, Ruby, HTML, CSS, and Python.
- Udacity <https://www.udacity.com/> Udacity offers free courses in programming, data science, and web development.
- CreativeLive <https://www.creativelive.com/> The site broadcasts live workshops with creative experts from around the world on topics such as photography, video, design, business, audio, music, crafting, and software development, which are free. They also offer courses that you can purchase.
- Treehouse <https://teamtreehouse.com/> An online technology school that offers beginner to advanced courses in web design, web development, mobile development and game development taught by a team of expert teachers. Treehouse has different tracks depending on your interests and it's a great investment for beginners. The platform also offers a gamified learning experience.
- FutureLearn <https://www.futurelearn.com/courses/upcoming> Completely free and with classes taught by universities and special organizations, the courses cover topics from business and management, creative arts, law, health, politics, science, digital skills, sports and leisure, and teaching. They offer courses that are six to eight weeks long (but also some shorter ones that take two weeks), academic accreditation and even online degrees.

- Transcription Certification Institute <https://www.transcriptioncertificationinstitute.org/> The institute provides training for transcriptionist and proofreaders.
- Curious <https://curious.com/> Curious is a subscription-based learning app that challenges users to earn daily "CQ points" by watching videos, taking quizzes, listening to audio lessons, reading articles, and more. It offers more than 20,000 lessons and is free for the first 7 days (and $69.99 per year afterwards)
- Code.org <https://code.org/> The website includes free coding lessons for beginners and it's mission is to get adults and children alike interested in coding and computer science.
- Kahn Academy <https://www.khanacademy.org/> Kahn Academy classes are free and offer practice exercises and instructional videos in math, science, computer programming, history, art history, and economics, but also Life Skills (Like Personal Finance and Growth mindset)
- General Assembly <https://generalassemb.ly/> General Assembly offers short and long courses in web and mobile development, product management, data science and more, online and in-person, across 15 campuses in 4 continents. To apply for an immersive bootcamp, the first step is for students to submit an online application
- Pluralsight <https://www.pluralsight.com/> The platform provides high-quality education on a wide variety of topics, divided in 10 categories. The courses are known for the quality of the instructors and have been designed to suit the needs of individual learners and for teams.
- MasterClass <https://www.masterclass.com/> MasterClass is an online learning service in the form of video lectures and demonstrations from the very top talent in many fields. You can either buy an annual subscription to access everything they have on the site or buy an individual course.
- Mindvalley <https://www.mindvalley.com/> Mindvalley's classes are taught by experts, so they have excellent lessons. A collection of self-development programs geared towards "transformative learning" with the end-goal of helping people achieve a more rewarding life.